

DECIPHERING THE RIGHT TO DISCONNECT: WHAT DOES THIS MEAN FOR ONTARIO, AND WHAT COULD HAPPEN IN OTHER PROVINCES?

Posted on April 1, 2022

Categories: Insights, Events, Webinars

Watch the webinar recording in our archived library: <http://mcmillan.lawcast.tv/>

The Ontario government passed legislation containing the “right to disconnect”. Or did they? (they didn’t). But Ontario employers with 25 or more employees have to have a policy on the right to disconnect as of June 2. How should employers approach the policy, manage employee expectations and is the rest of Canada looking to follow suit?

Join McMillan’s Employment & Labour Relations Group as we discuss the requirements of the legislation, considerations in drafting the policy and impacts for employers across the country.

Topics include:

- Definition of “disconnecting from work”
- Legislative overview and what it provides
- Practical legal and non-legal considerations
- Implementing the policy

Date & Time

Tuesday, April 19, 2022

11:30 am - 12:30 pm ET

Presenters

Dave J.G. McKechnie

Partner, Employment & Labour Relations

Ioana Pantis

Associate, Employment & Labour Relations

Marie-Eve Jean

mcmillan

Associate, Employment & Labour Relations

David Fanjoy

Associate, Employment & Labour Relations

For more information please contact events@mcmillan.ca.