Ontario's construction lien legislation has undergone profound change. The Construction Lien Act has been modernized, renamed the Construction Act, and now includes a robust prompt payment and adjudication regime. The Construction Act dramatically changes the way construction industry players do business, and how counsel and experts deliver their services.

McMillan is at the forefront of this change. Staffed with lawyers that are recognized experts in the Construction Act, McMillan has created a specialized Adjudication Desk to empower our clients. Our lawyers possess deep expertise in construction contracts and delivery methods, P3 infrastructure, advanced dispute resolution techniques and all other aspects of construction. We can identify how the Construction Act will impact your business, help you train your staff, and tailor your contracts and internal processes for success in this new legal environment. We would be happy to speak with you and assist you with your business.
