McMillan's National Construction & Infrastructure group is made up of two highly integrated and coordinated inter-disciplinary industry practice groups, Construction & Infrastructure ("C&I") and Project Finance and P3 ("PF&P3"). The C&I and PF&P3 practice groups work together within McMillan's National Construction Group. Consisting of over 50 lawyers across Canada, this group deals with construction and P3s either exclusively or as part of their larger practices in their respective disciplines. Our lawyers practice seamlessly together regardless of office boundaries, employing the right capability and teams throughout the country to deliver superior client service in relation to all aspects of Construction & Infrastructure. The group takes a problem-solving approach that integrates both barrister and solicitor-side thinking to yield more creative, comprehensive, and practical solutions to client challenges — whether on transactions, through dispute resolution processes, or otherwise managing risk. The group enjoys a long-standing reputation for their skills and expertise particularly where the policy of projects meets procurement practices.
