Over the past 18+ months, you have been doing your part to keep you and your family safe from COVID-19. As the country begins to reopen and health and safety restrictions begin to ease, McMillan LLP wants to do our part to help you get back to work safely.

As part of implementing our return to work process, McMillan has partnered with a national, not-for-profit corporation called POST Promise. Businesses that “make the promise” commit to implementing five key steps, which were developed in consultation with the Public Health Agency of Canada, to help prevent the spread of COVID-19.

McMillan LLP has committed to implementing the five key steps of the POST Promise:

1. Cleaning and preventative measures
2. Wearing a face covering when required
3. Physical distancing when required
4. Screening for COVID
5. Encouraging vaccination
