Ada Ang is excited to return to McMillan as an articling student after a rewarding experience as a summer student last year.

Ada graduated from the Juris Doctor program at the Peter A. Allard School of Law (Allard) at the University of British Columbia (UBC). During her first year at Allard, she volunteered at the ID Support Clinic through a placement with Pro Bono Students Canada (PBSC). She also served as Co-President of the Allard Law and Business Society and as the Student Representative for Thomson Reuters. Ada enjoyed her experience as a student clinician at Allard's Business Law Clinic, where she provided legal services to small businesses and non-profit organizations.

As a law student, Ada has gained valuable legal and professional skills by working alongside lawyers at two in-house legal departments and spent her last semester of law school as an exchange student at Leiden

University in the Netherlands.

Prior to law school, Ada obtained a Bachelor of Sciences at UBC with a major in Microbiology and Immunology (MBIM), graduating with distinction. A few highlights of her undergraduate experience include publishing two research papers and presenting her findings at the 2020 and 2021 MBIM Research Symposium.

In her spare time, she enjoys figure skating, playing the piano and trying new restaurants. She is also a big musical theatre fan! Her favourite musical theatre experience thus far is watching Wicked at London's West End.
