

ALISON PETERS

Categories: People, Business Professionals

As McMillan's National Recruitment Manager, Alison Peters administers the firm's processes for the recruitment of legal support professionals, including legal assistants, paralegals and law clerks, as well as non-legal firm members at all levels of reporting.

She monitors procedures on an ongoing basis, updating them regularly to ensure maximum efficiencies in attracting the best talent. A critical priority for Alison is that candidates view the firm's application process as a positive experience, regardless of the final hiring decision.

In 2014, one year after joining the firm's Human Resources Department in a coordinator role, Alison advanced to the position of National Recruitment Specialist. She was promoted again in 2019 to National Recruitment Manager.

Alison's previous experience includes just under 10 years with a major international hotel chain in a variety of front-line and management roles. She travelled extensively to Australia, Japan, United States and the Caribbean, setting up operations in various and diverse environments.
