Categories: People, Lawyers

Émile Catimel-Marchand maintains a thriving practice in financial services and restructuring and insolvency law. His work focuses on complex Canadian, cross-border and international financings for clients in a wide range of industries, including banking, finance and insurance as well as aviation.

Acting for corporations, secured lenders, unsecured lenders and insolvency professionals, Émile represents clients at all levels of federal and provincial courts, including the Supreme Court of Canada. He also supports clients in the preparation and negotiation of loan and security documentation.

Émile's experience in the aviation space includes advising on payment technologies and airport security regulations as well as bankruptcies and seizures in foreign jurisdictions.

Prior to articling with McMillan, Émile completed two internships in the legal department of a Canadian multinational construction company, where he gained valuable insight into the legal needs of a sophisticated corporation.
