

KELSEY MILLWARD

Categories: People, Lawyers

Kelsey Millward is building a broad legal practice in financial services and restructuring, focusing on commercial debt financing, asset-based lending, project financing, acquisition financing and all aspects of corporate insolvency.

As a part of her financial services practice, Kelsey participates in drafting and reviewing loan agreements, corporate resolutions, intercreditor agreements, legal opinions and a variety of security documents. With respect to her restructuring and insolvency practice, Kelsey assists clients through restructurings, bankruptcies, receiverships, DIP financings and various other forms of distressed financing.

During her legal studies, Kelsey volunteered with the International Refugee Assistance Project, and worked as research assistant at an immigration law firm focusing on refugee and humanitarian applications. She also volunteered at the Legal Information Clinic at McGill, where she represented students in disciplinary disputes with the University. Kelsey further acted as the legal information officer at a Montréal-based English-language non-profit, offering legal information and workshops on various startup related issues to entrepreneurs. She also completed a clerkship under a judge at the Mental Health Review Board of the Tribunal administratif du Québec.
