

KHALEED MAWJI

Categories: People, Lawyers

Khaleed Mawji is building a practice focused on employment and labour relations. He regularly advises and represents employers in a variety of matters, including employment standards compliance, human rights and accommodation, occupational health and safety, wrongful dismissals and labour arbitrations. In addition, he has assisted vendors and purchasers with the employment and labour aspects of corporate transactions, advising on employment-related liabilities.

During his legal studies, Khaleed served as the President of the Muslim Law Students Association and the Vice-President, Professional Development of the Osgoode OUTLaws. He also volunteered with Rainbow Railroad, an organization that relocates LGBTQ+ individuals who are fleeing persecution. Khaleed is the recipient of the 2022 Dean's Gold Key Award in recognition of his contributions to the Osgoode community.

Khaleed holds a JD from Osgoode Hall Faculty of Law and a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from the University of British Columbia. He is currently the co-lead of McMillan's Muslim Affinity Group.
