Categories: ESG, People, Lawyers

Lisa Page practices international trade law, providing advice in diverse regulatory areas including on import and export controls, economic sanctions, customs, procurement, government security clearances, controlled goods and transportation of dangerous goods. She has specialized expertise in advising domestic producers, foreign exporters and domestic importers of goods into Canada in anti-dumping and countervailing duty trade remedy cases before the Canadian International Trade Tribunal and the Canada Border Services Agency. She has represented clients in judicial review proceedings before the Federal Court and Federal Court of Appeal.

Lisa also practices copyright law, advising clients including major online music services on issues arising from the use of music on the internet, the tariff-setting process and the negotiation of royalty rates with collective societies before the Copyright Board of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal and the Supreme Court of Canada.

She works on files relating to administrative, public and intellectual property law. Lisa advises public and private sector clients in a range of industries, including oil and gas, manufacturing, technology and retail.

While completing her JD, Lisa worked as a policy analyst in the Copyright and Industrial Design Branch of the Canadian Intellectual Property Office.
