

RHYS GODIN

Categories: People, Law Students

I am entering my second year at the University of Toronto, Faculty of Law, and am thrilled to be joining the McMillan team as a summer student.

In my first year at the Faculty of Law, I was an associate editor with the University of Toronto Faculty of Law Review (UTFLR) for articles in private law. I was also fortunate to have the opportunity to be a part of the team at Downtown Legal Services Clinic as a student volunteer in the Criminal and Academic Offences division. My roles at both the UTFLR and the Clinic allowed me to apply the new skills and knowledge I acquired in my first year of law school as well as further hone skills I have accumulated from work, academic, and personal experiences.

Prior to studying law, I obtained an Honours Bachelor of Arts with High Distinction. I was one of 11 Canadian undergraduate students invited by the Bank of Canada to present my research (on the cross elasticity of private schooling) at the Canadian Economic Association Conference in 2019. I also have a Master of Arts in Economics from the University of Toronto.

Outside of work and school, I spend my time playing guitar, reading, baking, and cooking.
