

TAYLER FARRELL

Categories: People, Lawyers

Taylor is building a legal practice in international trade law, including in trade remedies, government procurement and federal regulatory matters. She represents clients on anti-dumping and countervailing trade remedy cases before the Canada Border Services Agency and the Canadian International Trade Tribunal. As a member of McMillan's procurement group, Taylor provides strategic and legal advice in designing and conducting procurement processes and also assists in the preparation of procurement solicitation documents. She also helps international and domestic clients navigate Canada's trade controls, including export and import controls and economic sanctions.

Taylor holds a JD from Queens University. Prior to law school, Taylor obtained a Master's degree in microbiology and immunology at the University of Western Ontario.
